

Members of Congress See Close-ups of Seven Men Who Head NRA Board

WASHINGTON — One of the chief objects of interest of returning members of Congress is the board of seven men comprising the high command of the NRA.

Capitol Hill is brimming over with questions concerning the Blue Eagle rulers, their views, background, what they have done.

When the Congressional spotlight is focused on the group it will reveal the following picture:

Sidney Hillman, the strong man of the board. In the more than two months of its existence, this staunch laborite (he is President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers) has clearly shown himself to be the leader of his colleagues as a strategist and negotiator. Quiet-mannered, persuasive, fast-thinking, Hillman dominates the board.

S. Clay Williams, chairman, a tobacco manufacturing big industrialist, who is none too happy on the board. Inside word is he wants to retire.

Dr. L. C. Marshall, secretary, an economist and statistical expert. Marshall has won the high praise of his associates as a hard-driving administrator. He inclines toward the liberal side, but is suspect in organized labor circles.

Leon Henderson, young head of the NRA Planning Division, and one of General Johnson's former lieutenants. A liberal and pro-laborite, Henderson has worked in close harmony with Hillman. The two make an effective team.

Blackwell Smith, 27-year old chief of the Blue Eagle legal section, former assistant to Donald Richberg when he was NRA general counsel. Smith is an able lawyer, but because of his youth and inexperience has kept in the background until recently when he has begun to assert himself—usually on the Hillman-Henderson side.

Dr. Walton Hamilton, Yale professor of constitutional law, an able economist and liberal inclined, but handicapped by uncertain health. He has not been active.

Arthur D. Whiteside, President of Dun & Bradstreet, dapper, sportswearing, strongly big-business-minded. Whiteside devotes most of his time to making speeches before business men assuring them the NRA means them no harm, that all's well that ends well.

Borah Stays Aloof

The national convention secretly planned by the Liberty League for late this month will be without benefit of Senator Bill Borah.

When League masterminds concocted their scheme, they hit on the brilliant idea of inviting Borah and Alfred E. Smith as the keynote speakers.

The brown derby champion signified his willingness to come.

But the thundering Idahoan, despite strong pleas, including a message from Smith, has refused.

He may delight in blasting the New Deal and flaying the GOP, but he is enrolling under no third party banner bearing the name of Irene duPont.

Senate parliamentarians are privately offering odds that West Virginia's 29-year-old Rush Holt will not be allowed to take his seat when Congress convenes.

Report Hilarity In Hotel
Caused Fire

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 12 — A steam shovel began biting into the ghastly wreckage of the Hotel Kerns today, as firemen began their search for the bodies of between 50 and 100 victims believed to have perished in flames which razed the old structure yesterday.

Sixteen were known dead today, but the exact number of persons whose charred bodies lie in the pyre remained uncertain.

Estimates varied from 50 to 100. It was agreed that the toll probably will run closer to 100 than to the lower figure.

The first unrecognizable body was taken from the ruins of the hotel shortly after 9 a. m. As the steam shovel lifted ton after ton of the debris. Crowds looked on as the snorting monster crushed its way through the crumbling remains of a wall and began its work on the ruins.

Meanwhile three separate investigations to determine the cause of the disaster got under way. Coroner Ray Gorsline prepared to open an inquest into the deaths.

Prosecutor Dan D. McCullough announced he was starting an inquiry into reports that wild parties in the hotel preceded the fire.

"It is entirely possible that a cigarette in the hands of some intoxicated person caused this holocaust," he said.

City authorities began an inspection of the fire department's rescue equipment, to determine why firemen failed to stretch life nets under the scores of trapped victims who leaped from windows to land in the streets below or in Grand river which flows behind the hotel. Reports that the fire department's equipment was obsolete were denied by Chief Hugo Delfs.

The fire, starting at 5 a. m. yesterday, swept through the old wood and brick hotel at a time when it was crowded, largely due to the presence in Lansing of the entire state legislature, called into special session Monday by Governor William A. C. Comstock.

Five of the thirteen dead identified up to this morning, were state legislators—one of them a veteran senator from Saginaw. Families of legislators all over the

POSTMASTER CRASH VICTIM

Frank Campbell, 55, Dies In Chillicothe Hospital; Leaves
Three Daughters.

Frank W. Campbell, 55, postmaster at Clarksville and brother of H. White Campbell, Williamsport banker, succumbed at 10:10 a. m. Wednesday in Chillicothe hospital where he was taken Saturday night after being struck by the automobile of Homer Leaverton, New Holland roofer and furnace man.

A fractured skull caused Mr. Campbell's demise. In an effort to relieve pressure on the brain his spine was punctured Monday afternoon but that proved to no avail.

He was widely known in his community having served as postmaster for 10 years. He had many friends in New Holland, Atlanta and Williamsport and was known by many residents of this city.

Mr. Campbell had kept the post office open late Saturday night as was his custom. He had closed the office and was walking across the street when struck. He was dragged about 40 feet by Leaverton's car. The slippery pavement prevented Leaverton from avoiding striking him.

In addition to his brother in Williamsport, Mr. Campbell has three daughters two of whom are teachers, one in Clarksville and the other near Chillicothe, while the third is a student at Ohio university, Athens. Mr. Campbell's wife died about five years ago.

The body was taken to the Kirk Funeral home, New Holland, where arrangements will be completed.

Officers Say Other Arrests Are Near

Arrest of six local persons including one man and five youths had partially cleared up a "shoplifting" ring which has been causing havoc in a number of uptown stores in recent weeks.

The man arrested is Alonzo Gilmore, 35, of York-st. and the youths are: Maynard Keaton, 16, N. Scioto-st.; Harold Rambo, 18, Clinton and Ohio-sts.; John Graham, 16, York-st.; Harold Smith, 18, N. Scioto-st.; and Eugene Steele, 19, W. Mill-st.

GOODS RECOVERED

More arrests were believed near today as Officer William McCrady, Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Bryan Custer carried on an investigation. A large quantity of goods has been recovered and some that has been sold by the band has been traced and will be returned.

A number of stores have reported "shoplifting" prevalent especially with the approach of the Christmas season and the arrests will help clear up a number of the jobs.

Several of the youths have made confessions while Gilmore, the older of the entire outfit and believed by officers to be the "fence," has admitted being in possession of some of the goods.

Stores which have been robbed by the "gang" include Stiffler's, Rothman's, Murphy's, Grant's, Stofers, and the Atlantic & Pacific. Some articles stolen from each have been recovered.

Officer McCrady arrested Smith and Steele to start "the ball rolling." At about midnight Sheriff Radcliff and Deputy Custer had others under arrest but the final arrest was not made until 5 a. m. Wednesday.

DENY $500 JOB

Although closely questioned all have denied knowing anything of the robbery of $500 from the G. C. Murphy store 10 days ago.

All are held pending charges although McCrady has filed affidavits of petit larceny against Steele and Smith.

JAPAN DRAFTS PLAN TO RACE UNITED STATES

More Submarines, Osumi's Plan; Japan Now Have More Subs, More Men.

TOKIO, Dec. 12.—More submarines and more modern but economical warships will be Japan's answer to any naval building war that may develop from Japan's forthcoming denunciation of the Washington treaty.

Seeking to allay fears that Japan's already overburdened taxpayers would have to bear the cost of such a construction race, Admiral Mineo Osumi minister of marine, outlined that program to the privy council, which is considering the draft of Japan's abrogation of the Washington pact.

"Japan does not intend to compete in a naval building race unless provoked," Admiral Osumi told the council.

IMPROVE DEFENSES

He said he was confident that such competition was not inevitable, but if it did come, "Japan's best answer would be to improve her submarine defenses."

Japan now has 63 submarines to 45 for the United States.

Admiral Osumi also told the privy council that only a small increase in the present naval expenditure of 200,000,000 yen a year would enable Japan sufficiently to improve her navy.

Stress in any new construction would be on economy, while it would be possible to modernize ships that would otherwise have to be retired under the Washington treaty.

Fear that America would start a construction race was unjustified, said the marine minister, because the United States is already building up to 80 per cent of its building capacity.

Moreover, he declared, Japan has a naval personnel exceeding by 10,000 America's 80,000, so that Japan would be in much better position to man new ships than would the United States.

ISLAND 'QUEEN' AND FOUR OTHERS DEAD

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Dec. 12.—Five persons, including the far-famed Baroness Eloise Bosquet De Wagner, self-styled "empress" of Floreana island in the Galapagos, died in the mysterious series of tragedies which wrecked the modern Garden of Eden, according to fragmentary reports received here today.

The dispatches indicated that the Baroness and Robert Phillips, a German who was the last to enjoy her favor and affections, had perished in fleeing from Floreana island, also known as Charles island, but the details of their death were not known.

Two bodies found on the bleak shore of Marchena island have been tentatively identified as those of Alfred Rudolph Lorenz and Truvie Nugurud, Norwegian sailor. The fifth victim of the blight that struck the back to nature camp was Dr. Friedrich Ritter, former German dentist, who died from eating the tainted meat of a chicken.

MERCURY FALLS TO NINE DEGREES HERE

Coldest of Present Winter; Central States in Throes of Frigid Cold

The coldest weather of the year had struck Circleville today with an official mark of nine degrees recorded on Dr. H. R. Clarke's government thermometer.

The temperature started to fall from a high of 22 degrees Tuesday afternoon until early Wednesday it was gradually slipping toward the zero mark.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Six thousand men were at work in icy temperatures today clearing Chicago's streets of snow that fell in the blizzard that claimed four lives and tied up transportation.

FALLS TO 17 BELOW

Continued cold weather was the official forecast today as the mercury fell to 15 above zero. Severe cold prevailed in the central states, with readings as low as 17 below zero in Iowa.

The task of removing snow left by the worst blizzard here in 30 years will amount to $50,000, it was estimated. Although buses, street cars, elevated and suburban trains were running on schedule again the snow still made driving difficult for motorists.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—New York was still held fast in the grip of extreme cold weather today.

Six persons were reported to have died as a direct or indirect result of the frigid wave and fears were expressed that this number would be expanded.

The thermometer registered 12 degrees above zero shortly after midnight and as the night wore on it remained at approximately the same figure.

Weather bureau experts were hopeful that there might be some abatement of the cold late in the day.

WOMAN TO DIRECT OHIO COMPLIANCE

CLEVELAND, Dec. 12.—The far-flung task of directing NRA compliance in Ohio today was placed in the hands of a woman.

Swope and chief of the NRA compliance division at Washington. Miss Woods succeeds Benedict Crowell, who was advanced Monday from the compliance post to chief of the new four-state NRA set-up.

The new regional set-up will include Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan and Kentucky and will be one of nine districts in the nation.

Two Brotherhoods Hear Mr. Harris' Travel Talk

F. R. Harris, superintendent of Greenfield schools, made a splendid talk to members of Methodist and Presbyterian men's clubs Tuesday evening at the former club's meeting. His subject was "The Lost Cities of the Mayas."

Mr. Harris at the outset of his address explained his "wanderlust" and that every spring as soon as school is out he heads the call of the open road. His travels last summer took him to Yucatan and the lost cities of the Mayas where he experienced some of the thrills of a lifetime visiting the ruins.

His descriptions of the lost cities, the Mayas, from whence they came and where they went and the interesting manner with which he delivered his talk proved pleasing to the men's club members.

Mr. Harris was accompanied here by Dr. Hull.

2 STEAMERS IN DISTRESS

Identities Not Learned; One
Sends Rockets In Pacific
Early Today.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Interception of a radio message by the Radio Marine corporation here from the S. S. American indicated that another sea tragedy was taking place in the Pacific off the coast of Guatemala early today.

The American reported that it had sighted an unknown vessel sending rockets aloft.

The ship apparently carried no radio for the American did not report being in communication with it.

The position given by the American is about 300 miles off the west coast of Guatemala and is directly on the steamship lanes to leading North American ports from South America and the Canal Zone.

Radio men here expressed the belief that the distressed vessel might be a freighter or a tramp steamer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Radio stations on the eastern seaboard were keeping a sharp lookout today for further distress calls from an unknown ship in the North Atlantic.

Two SOS calls from a ship, whose signals were so weak and unreadable that its position could not be learned, were picked up here last night by the Mackay Radio and Telegraph company.

The two calls were heard within 20 minutes of each other.

According to the coast guard, the steamer F. J. Luckenbach, somewhere in the Caribbean, also picked up the signals, but did not know their origin.

SOLONS MEET TO VOTE UPON MONEY SOURCE

White Still Favors Income Tax But Senators Are Opposed

SESSION IS TODAY

Question of Tax Duplicates Is In Air

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—With indications that a sufficient membership of both houses would be on hand to take action, State Senator Paul Yoder (D) of Dayton, the Democratic floor leader, announced today that a bill to increase rates on productive intangibles one per cent would be placed upon immediate passage this afternoon.

The productive intangible bill, which Governor White said he would sanction although still preferring an income tax measure, would exempt the first $500 from the increase.

HOUSE IN FAVOR

Speaker Frank Cave of the house of representatives, said that should the senate pass the productive intangibles bill, it probably would receive the immediate concurrence of the house.

A check-up this morning indicated that there were about 25 senators on hand for today's legislative session and about 50 members of the house. Belief was expressed by legislative leaders that there would be a sufficient membership on hand to work out the program which Governor White has insisted must be passed to accompany the sales tax measure enacted last week.

Efforts were being made by Rep. J. Freer Bittinger (D) of Ashland, to gain the submission of his own plan of intangible tax increase, which is designed on a bracket system. It was believed, however, there was little likelihood it would be accepted as the plan was understood to be disapproved by Governor White.

DUPLICATES SUBMITTED
Meantime, the tax commission's county affairs experts passed the floor, wondering what to do about tentative real estate tax duplicates already submitted by 41 of the 88 county auditors but on which no action can be taken pending the outcome of the row between the governor and the legislature.

Until a sales tax goes into effect, if it does, real estate is still the base of all state taxation, yet with the entire tax situation "up in the air," so to speak, approval of the 1934 county tax duplicates, necessary to collections early next year, is being withheld.

DOKE TO AGAIN TELL HIS STORY

WOODLAND, Cal., Dec. 12.—His life at stake, the chief character in Yolo County's famed "white hibiscus" court drama was to take the spotlight again today.

Judson C. Doke, being retried on a charge he murdered Lamar Hollingshead, 22-year-old college poet and lover, was slated to tell once more from the witness stand his story of the wheatfield shooting over the affections of pretty dark-haired Helen Louise Doke, his wife, but the inspiration of Hollingshead's verses.

JURY SEATED IN M'ARTHUR TRIAL

McARTHUR, O., Dec. 12.—Taking of testimony was scheduled to start here today in the trial of seven former employees of the H. C. Godman Co., Columbus shoe manufacturers.

The defendants were charged with assault to maim and assault to kill during last summer's strike of Godman workers.

The jury to hear the trial of the seven defendants was completed yesterday. It is comprised of 11 men and one housewife.

BANKER GIVEN LONG STRETCH IN PRISON

HILLSBORO, Dec. 12.—C. C. Redkey, former cashier of the Leesburg bank, was sentenced to serve 30 years in Ohio penitentiary on each of four charges of making false entries and misapplication of funds by Judge N. Craig McBride.

Redkey was found guilty by a jury. Twelve other indictments were nolle.

MORE POWER URGED FOR GOVERNMENT IN CRIME DRIVE

CRIME SCHOOL THOUGHT NEAR

Vote of 10 Jurors Instead of 21 Urged by Pecora in Criminal Cases.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Greater authority to the federal government in the drive against crime loomed today as the result of the national crime conference in session here.

Under the direction of the department of justice, a national institute of criminology appeared to be in the making as the delegates continued their efforts to decide on a constructive program to combat crime. Racketeering and crime claims an annual toll of 13 billions of dollars in this country.

The conference was told of the need for more effective co-ordination of the activities of police and prosecuting officers of the various states. While George Z. Medaille, former U. S. district attorney in New York, pointed to the system of county government as inefficient in law enforcement Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati, urged the retention of this form of local government.

OPERATE IN STATES
Medaille recommended a central investigative organization for all the states and to be as effective as the department of justice.

Ferdinand Pecora, a member of the Federal Securities Exchange commission and former counsel for the Senate banking committee, urged the elimination of the privilege to decline to testify in a criminal case, and the requirement of a unanimous verdict of a jury. In criminal cases he favors a vote of 10 jurors to convict, instead of all 12.

Dr. William A. White, an eminent alienist and superintendent of St. Elizabeth's hospital here, recommended that persons who have been found to have serious anti-social tendencies be placed in the hands of the state.

Resolutions commending the department of justice for its anti-crime campaign and requests that the conference go on record as favoring a study of juvenile delinquency have been made from the floor. The delegates were also asked to consider a resolution suggesting the department of justice establish a permanent body to study the causes of crime and to make sociological surveys.

James A. Johnson, warden of Alcatraz penitentiary, the United States "Devil's Island" in San Francisco bay discussed the functions of a modern prison at today's session. He has such prisoners as Al Capone, and George "Machine Gun" Kelly under his charge.

BOMBS WRECK SHOW HOUSES IN N. ENGLAND

Hollywood stars for months during its successful run at the Olvera Street Marionette Theatre in Los Angeles. This unchanged version, as shown to the sophisticated of the film center, will be shown this coming season throughout the United States.

MATINEE PLANNED
A special version of "Rip" will be for the pleasure of the children at the matinee, with a trip to Santa Claus' workshop in Little America. The children, too, will have an opportunity to see marionette reproductions of those acts at the Chicago World's Fair which would be particularly attractive to them: The Floating Lagoon Theatre, Enchanted Island, Black Forest, Wing of a Century, intro-duced clowns, animals, Mardi Gras, and movie stars in miniature.

There are 17 original singing numbers, some especially written with the idiosyncrasies of certain motion picture stars in mind—all in a satirical vein. The settings and lightings have been worked out with infinite care to give the proper value to each character. Backed by five years of successful playing in one theatre, the artists with adept fingers bring the finishing touch to the "Theatre of the Little People."

The proceeds from these performances are for the benefit of the athletic association of the high school.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go.

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of laxative pills and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't tank for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. (Don't substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1934 C. M. Co.)

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB ENJOYS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Always an affair of much interest and gaiety for members of the business and Professional Women's club is the club's annual birthday party, which this year was held in the club rooms Tuesday evening preceded by a 6:30 o'clock dinner.

Thirty three members and guests enjoyed the affair which celebrated the club's eleventh anniversary.

Christmas wreaths and greenery decorated the dining room where the guests were seated for the dinner at attractively appointed tables lighted with red tapers. Miniature Christmas trees at each place for favors and clever place cards were used.

An entertaining program followed the delightful dinner hour. Mrs. Harriett Hennessy for the opening number played two piano selections, "Arabesque" and "Doll Dance."

Hilma Haecker who is always favorite with his musical instruments played "Silent Night" the zither and a novelty number the harmonica.

Several numbers were then sung by a chorus comprised of all presidents of the club after which Miss Clara Southward, vice president, in behalf of the club presented Miss Charlotte McEwing, president, with a gift. Miss McEwing also observed her birthday anniversary Tuesday.

Three popular piano numbers were then played by Mrs. Hennessy. Mr. Haecker entertained with three accordion solos, "The Man in the Flying Trapeze," "Over the River" and "Jingle Bells." Concluding the program Mrs. Mary G. Morris and Miss Blanche McIntire sang one of the club songs accompanied by Mrs. William Fitzpatrick.

A guessing contest was enjoyed which the prize was won by Mrs. Mary Wilder and the remainder of the evening was spent bridge, high scores at the close of the party going to Miss Esther Drum and Miss Nelle Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweyer will be hosts at the next club meeting.

Miss Marie Dumm who was called here during the illness and death of her mother Mrs. Nelson Dumm has returned to Richfield where she has been teaching. She was accompanied by Miss Jane Goldsmith who has been a visitor in the Dumm home for the past week and also by her sister Miss Leona Dumm who expect to make an extended visit with the latter's brother William Dumm and family of Akron.

NO TIME FOR JINGOES

SECRETARY Hull has wisely diluted Ambassador Bingham's recent plea for a "lasting understanding" and a "technique" of diplomatic co-operation with Great Britain. The Bingham speech could easily be interpreted as advocating an Anglo-American alliance, which this country does not desire. It wants closer understanding, square dealing and friendly co-operation, but that is enough.

Britain has interests all over the world, many of them more troublesome than ours. They are its own interests, whether in Canada, Australia, South Africa, the Malay States, Hongkong, India or Britain's markets in Japan itself. In the present dispute with Japan, Britain has many more conflicts than we have, although diplomatic finesse and skillful propaganda have made us appear as the nation with which Japan has the biggest quarrel. This may be in part a consequence of the naval conversations being held in London, to and from which all cable reports are addressed. They might better have been held in a neutral place, like Geneva.

An alliance is not needed, but vigilance is; not merely vigilance against the Japanese jingoes and militarists, but also against our own lack of diplomatic experience and our own jingoes. Big navies agitate for 6,500 more men right away for the navy. Secretary Swanson glories in seeing "the navy being restored to a position commensurate with its responsibilities." Chairman Vinson of the house naval committee banks on the "powerful naval sentiment in congress" to get the fleet built up to treaty limits. The pack is in full cry for more and more terribly costly ships which may or may not be obsolete, according to the divergent opinions of the naval experts. Of course, this may be part of an employment program; but otherwise, and even then, it is playing into the hands of the jingoes and propagandists who are holding up this country as Japan's chief foe.

There is no need to be in a hurry. If Japan denounces the Washington Treaty, it will still have two years to go. There will have to be another conference next year. If we hope to accomplish anything at that conference, the worst way to go about it is by letting jingoes and militarists bellow and threaten to get ready to knock somebody's head off.

The Japanese are asking for a new deal. They were given a right to a hearing on this subject when the treaty was drafted. It was then anticipated that changes might occur which would warrant some change in the naval formula. Apparently our jingoes would like to have a new deal that would let us build as we please. Can't they learn anything? Only a few days ago Japan adopted a budget swollen with increased military appropriations that it doesn't know how to handle and that has set its political groups at loggerheads.

We want a new deal—for Japan and for ourselves. It is a new deal in better understanding, in good faith, in reducing and not increasing navies. It is a new deal in which the jingoes and militarists of this country and Japan have no place.

Health Examinations a Guard Against Apoplexy

Most Cases of This Dreaded Disorder Could Have Been Prevented, Says Authority

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

CEREBRAL HEMORRHAGE, or "apoplexy," as it is frequently called, is a common and often fatal condition. It is caused by the rupture of a small blood vessel in the brain. This leads to an escape of blood resulting in pressure and subsequent unconsciousness.

In most cases of apoplexy the sufferer has failed to heed nature's signs of warning. I am confident that there would be fewer victims of this serious disorder if necessary precautions were taken against it. By this I do not mean to imply, of course, that all cases of apoplexy can be prevented. But I am certain that if sufferers from constitutional disorders would have these disturbances corrected without delay, apoplexy would be less liable to occur.

This ailment is commonly encountered in adults beyond the age of fifty. It is rarely seen in young persons and is usually associated with such constitutional disorders as high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, heart disease and kidney disorders.

What Causes It

Cerebral hemorrhage is not a disease, but is the result of certain changes within the body. Continued neglect and failure to obtain needed rest and medication lead to a stroke.

A danger often overlooked is the failure of elderly persons to realize that they can no longer follow the stride of earlier years. They neglect to give their bodies the necessary care, attention and rest essential to continued health and longevity. Too often they overexert themselves and subject their bodies to strenuous work.

No one will deny the many advantages of periodic health examinations. This safeguard of health, if properly utilized, is an aid in the prevention of disease. It is of great benefit to the young as well as the old. But it is imperative for those individuals who are approaching advanced life. As I have repeatedly said, I believe an excellent plan for every individual is to report to his physician for a complete physical checkup at least twice a year. Victims of certain constitutional defects should consult with a physician even more frequently than this.

Live a Careful Life

To those who have been victims of apoplexy and have recovered, I would advise that a careful and restricted life be led. Strenuous, exciting and fatiguing work must be eliminated. In addition, emotional excitement, such as comes with anger, fear and worry, must be avoided, if possible. Bear in mind that the quiet, untroubled person rarely, if ever, succumbs to a stroke of apoplexy.

In addition, the diet should be simple and nutritious. Overeating is especially dangerous because many a case of apoplexy occurs after a heavy meal. Hygienic living, an abundance of fresh air and sunlight, adequate hours of rest, and freedom from worry are essential to all persons subject to this disorder.

Answers to Health Queries

K. G. H. Q.—I am 18 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, what should I weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 153 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of your age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

Mrs. C. S. Q.—What foods are acid forming? I have been told to avoid such foods. 2. What can be done for a numb, painful feeling in the hands—this condition often awakens me at night?

A.—For full particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. 2. This is due to poor circulation. Application of heat should give increased comfort and relief. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

CHAPTER XXXI

Howard was not a patient lover, although he never let Caroline see what was in his mind. He felt for her the respect he'd been brought up to show to all girls in his own class and he believed that he could make everything right in time—but that time was too indefinite to be awaited as he had awaited their wedding date. At times he hated himself for wanting her so overpoweringly, but he knew that there was nothing else in the world he did want. Ambition had never touched him, or real desire for any other woman. Caroline and ease, and his life would be complete.

Caroline had had no difficulty in securing her old job at the factory. The personnel director had listed her as a capable and promising worker. He was glad to have her back, although Caroline was surprised that she'd got the place when she saw that the number of employees was greatly lessened since she'd been away.

She spoke to Howard about it. He instantly took advantage of the opportunity thus offered him to impress upon her the fact that his father's business affairs were in a precarious condition. Caroline understood—it was another plea for patience. But it was unnecessary; she had resigned herself to waiting. Howard's being at the factory—although she never saw him there—made it easier for her. After all, he was working too, saving, perhaps, for their future. And they had almost every evening together—how much better that was than the loneliness of never seeing him!

They took long drives in the coupe, dined and danced at the small inn which none of their friends patronized, went occasionally to a suburban movie theatre, taking their limited pleasure where they found it. It was tacitly agreed between them that to parade their relationship in the haunts of people who knew them would serve no good purpose and cause endless gossip. Many evenings they spent with Mrs. Rutledge, in spite of her protests, when Philip was away. Caroline grieved for her mother's lonely state. But Alva still held out against Howard and would not let company them out of the house. She had grown very frail and delicate in the past few months. The strain of her changed life, its disappointments and burdens, had told heavily upon her. Caroline watched her anxiously.

One day when she came home from work she found her mother reading a letter from Philip. Fern, her mother's only sister. There were tears in Alva's eyes and a wistful expression in her voice as she said: "Poor Fern—read it, Caroline." And she handed the letter to Caroline.

Fern wrote that she was ill and tired, and would be glad if Alva could come to her for a little while. It was a pathetic appeal, not meant to be complained of or hopeless, but to be complied with a great pity, by both Fern and her mother.

"It made you homesick, didn't it, Mom?" she said impulsively. "Well, why don't you go? You need a change, someone to talk to. Father and I will manage all right."

"Caroline, you couldn't; not without Mrs. Wade. And there isn't any money anyway."

"You're going!" Caroline insisted. "It may not be a rest for you, but it will be fun for you to see the twins."

"But darling, don't you think she sounded as though they were not very well off—I might be a burden. Poor Arthur was never successful."

"She asked you. And you won't be a burden—only you mustn't overwork yourself. You haven't seen her for a long while, have you? She's probably as crazy to see you as you are to see her. And it's your job, too."

"Not the old home," Alva corrected her. "My father told me long before he died."

"It's your home town, then. And it isn't too far for me to drive you there and get back over a week end."

"You could do that, if the weather was good," Mrs. Rutledge agreed, brightening perceptibly. "I do wish Fern hadn't been too proud to let us help them when we were in a position to do it. I always meant to do something for Jack and Jill—give them an education at least. Now the poor little darlings have no prospects at all."

Poems That Live

FORBEARANCE

Hast thou named all the birds without a gun?
Loved the wood-rose, and left it on its stalk?
At rich men's tables eaten bread and pulse?
Unarmed, faced danger with a heart of trust?
And loved so well a high behavior,
In man or maid, that thou from speech refrained,
Nobility more nobly to repay?
O, be my friend, and teach me to be thine!

"Nonsense. You'll find Jack planning to be president and Jill aiming to become a picture star. Wait and see! And now let's decide what you're going to take. 'Fraid you won't knock anyone dead with your wardrobe, darling, but with Aunt Fern about to have another baby you won't go out much and no one there has seen a thing you have, so that won't be much of a problem. Let's go right upstairs and look your things over!"

"Have dinner first," her mother urged. "I've got the eggs ready for a soufflé."

"Mother, a soufflé! Aren't you an angel! I'll have the grime off in a minute and be right down."

Philip was not with them at dinner. "I won't stay more than a week," Alva said, "don't bother cooking for your father, Caroline. He'll be out most of the time and I'll bake a small ham for lunches. He can prepare his own breakfasts. Do you think you can drive down for me?"

"Of course. And don't worry about us. Howard will be glad to take me to dinner when Father's out. And I'll be down for you a week from Sunday."

They left the following Saturday, in the early afternoon. The weather was cold but the roads were clear and Caroline held the small car at a good steady pace. They did not stop for dinner but ate sandwiches out of a paper bag and drank coffee out of a thermos bottle at a gas station. It was a terrific strain on Caroline and when they reached Fern's house soon after midnight her mother insisted that she go right to bed.

At dawn the next morning the twins woke her up, crawling into bed beside her. Fern lived in a large old frame house. Caroline took a room to herself, so she played with Jack and Jill until rising time without disturbing anyone else. They were bright, pretty children, with the auburn hair their mother had missed. Caroline made a game of their visit and got them to talk in whispers and another their Aunt Alva was a fairy godmother sleeping in the next room, who would vanish if they woke her out of her slumber, and take the presents she had brought, with her.

"Presents! Poor cheap toys," Caroline said to herself. But the children went into raptures over them when, just after breakfast, they were given to them.

Caroline ate a substantial meal of corned beef and bacon and started for home. Dark clouds had blown up in the east, threatening a storm. She thought she could get to her destination before it broke, but it caught her before she had gone a hundred miles and she drove in blinding rain. Early darkness and dazzling lights added to the difficulty of steering. The roads were slippery. Twice her car went into a dangerous skid. Once she narrowly avoided a collision at an unlighted crossroads.

She had figured the mileage she must have on her speedometer. She took a wrong turn and reached home. More than more frequently she called it as the time passed and her weariness and nervous tension grew. It was sadly discouraging information she got. At this rate it would be late in the night before she arrived at South Town. And she felt as if she could never drive that long.

Her arms were growing stiff and the muscles of her legs began to ache with the agony of strain. A little more of this and she knew she must find shelter at some garage or collapse. It had been half an hour since she had passed a garage, and it was fifteen long, torturing minutes before she came to another one.

She was resting there, drinking black coffee from the refreshment stand which fortunately for her was run in connection with the garage, when a young man on a motorcycle stopped beside her car. He looked at the license plate and hurried inside the lunch room.

"Malcolm!" Caroline choked on a swallow of coffee as she called his name.

"Reception committee," he grinned in relief at seeing her. "Sent out by Mom Stuart."

"How did she know?"

"You're either got worried and telephoned your home. Your dad—well, he couldn't have found you with a car. The old motorcycle did the trick. You look all in. I'll drive for you. Pretty bad storm."

He had coffee with her and then a mechanic helped him fasten the motorcycle to the running board of the car. He took the wheel and Caroline relaxed beside him with a soothing sense of safety.

"It was more than good of you to come," she told him. "I couldn't have made it." Her voice broke into a self-conscious laugh. "Rescue in the rain," she said lightly. "I think I'll always be looking out for you when the clouds gather."

Malcolm wondered if she was thinking of the day they first met. Well, what of it? She needn't try to make him feel better by saying things she didn't mean. A lot she'd ever think of him when she was with the guy Howard Dunsworth!

He did not answer, and Caroline, sensing the turn of his mind, lapsed into silence. She wished, though, that she could tell him she hadn't intended to drop him any crumbs of pity. She had meant what she said. She couldn't help it. He seemed so infallibly a synonym for security and assistance. To say it, though, would sound like leading him on for nothing.

Presently the silence and her exhaustion checked the train of troubled thoughts in her mind. She fell asleep. Malcolm saw that her head was jerking uncomfortably with the motion of the car. He reached an arm across her shoulders and pulled her over against him. She slept there, her head on his shoulder, until they arrived at South Town.

Her father came out and held an umbrella over her from the driveway to the house. Malcolm put the car in the garage. Caroline was inside the house before she realized that she had not said goodnight to him. She started to the door to see if it was too late to call to him when the telephone rang and her father said: "That's Howard. He's phoned every half hour since dark."

Caroline went to answer it. In relieving Howard's anxiety she forgot about Malcolm. And though she tried at every opportunity for several days to see him and thank him he avoided her more purposefully than ever. That drive had proved to him anew that he had only to be near her to go half mad with the desire to take her in his arms and hold her there forever. One night he weakened and told her father he'd be glad to drive for her when she went to bring her mother home.

Mr. Rutledge relayed the message to Caroline, but she had to reject the offer because Howard had already demanded that she allow him to accompany her.

Caroline objected on the ground that he would be away over night and she did not wish to give Gwendolyn an excuse to bring false accusations against her.

Howard thought it a coolly deliberate decision for a girl in love to reach "At times," he said recklessly. "I wonder if you are in love with me, Caro!"

"Do I have to become involved in a scandal to prove it?" she retorted. It was hard for Howard to answer. If he told her the truth he would have to admit that Gwendolyn did not know he was seeing her again—that he had lied about that. And yet if he did not reassure her he could never carry out his plans.

After a moment he said thoughtfully: "I suppose I should have told you before, but I wanted to be certain. I think Gwen is about ready to listen to reason. We're leading two separate lives as it is. We don't even dine together any more, even when I'm not with you. As a matter of fact I don't believe she will know I'm away and if she did I doubt if she'd care."

Caroline saw no reason for disbelieving him. Certainly Gwendolyn was not interfering with his freedom. That had seemed strange to her, since Howard had said Gwendolyn was jealous of her. Thinking it over she had come to believe that Gwendolyn would accept almost any conditions rather than have Howard leave her. "Just hanging on for spite and what little glory she gets out of his name," she concluded.

Nevertheless she could not endure the thought of putting herself at Gwendolyn's mercy. Howard's words were encouraging. "Oh, if she only would be fair!" she exclaimed hopefully.

Interior Decorators Now Offered Wallpaper In Variety of Designs

Wallpaper has for many years been a popular wall finish because of its infinite variety of colors, designs and effects. In keeping with the modern trend, manufacturers have developed wallpapers which are more attractive and of better quality than the old papers, and thoroughly conforming to the present-day requirements in decoration.

Not long ago, a papered room could never be rearranged without patches of unfaded wall being brought into view. With this problem in mind, wallpaper manufacturers developed after long experimentation a new scientifically-colored paper, which cannot be harmed by the strongest light.

In addition to being colorfast,
many papers today are damp-proof. Waterproof and even washable papers are available for kitchens, baths, nurseries, and other rooms where such papers might be desired. More different designs and effects are offered than ever before. Many reproductions of fine old eighteenth and nineteenth century designs, as well as a variety of distinctive patterns by contemporary artists, are available.

Old scenic papers are available,
not only in the original grays and browns popular a hundred years ago, but also in gay natural colors.

Some designs are wide and free in treatment, with large areas of open background. The effect is of a mural painting.

Designs which employ flower
motifs are always in good taste, especially when the flowers are scattered rather loosely about on a plain ground and surrounded with a great deal of open space.

The new modernistic designs are adaptable to modern rooms, and often are effective in traditional rooms. There are modern papers in black and white which give the effect of pen and ink sketches applied on the wall. These are very attractive in small writing or powder rooms, especially with black work lined with silver.

An infinite selection of "whoopie" patterns to gladden the hearts of merry-makers is available for the recreation room in the basement or other part of the house. For children's playrooms, there are mother goose characters and storybook scenes. There is a wallpaper, in fact, to solve every background problem.

In order to insure correctness throughout the house, a competent decorator should be consulted.
There is always plenty of room,
however, for the exercising of individual tastes, which should never be sacrificed if the house is to possess "personality."

Comfort, Convenience and Value Increased by Rewiring Operation

Rewiring enhances the comfort, convenience, safety and value of real property. Federal Housing Administration loans can be used advantageously to modernize the wiring of the home or business property.

The living room of the home or apartment may be equipped with a center ceiling light and four convenience outlets for floor,
table and desk lamps and radio,
all controlled by switches at the entrance. Two or more side wall lights should be at the mantel or other suitable location. A convenience outlet in the middle of the floor, and one or more convenience outlets at the mantel or elsewhere are desirable.

The dining room needs a center ceiling light and two or more side wall lights, all with three-way switches at both entrances. A convenience outlet in the middle of the floor, and one or more side wall convenience outlets should be installed also.

Each bedroom needs a center
ceiling light with a three-way switch at the entrance and bedside. Three side wall convenience outlets for dressing table and bedside lights, and a light for each closet controlled automatically by the doors are also suggested.

For the sake of convenience, a bathroom should be equipped with:
A center ceiling light with switch at the entrance. Two side wall lights above the lavatory with a three-way switch at the lavatory and entrance. A waterproof center ceiling shower light with wall switch at tub. A side wall convenience outlet.

The kitchen could be profitably
wired to accommodate one ceiling light with a three-way switch. It should have: A convenience outlet for an exhaust fan. A heavy duty range outlet (if an electric stove is used). A clock hanger convenience outlet. A convenience outlet for a dishwasher, and four additional convenience outlets.

Use could be readily found in the modern basement for: A ceiling or wall light for stair illumination, with a three-way switch. A laundry center ceiling light with switch at the laundry entrance, two laundry side lights, and two outlets for the washing machine and ironing board. A recreation room center ceiling light with switch at entrance or wall, and a convenience outlet for a floor lamp, radio or other item. A workshop center ceiling light and side wall light controlled from the entrance or wall, and two convenience outlets for machinery.
Separate circuit for the furnace (if electrical equipment is used),
and a ceiling light at the furnace.

NEW ROOF ON OLD ONE CUTS COST OF JOB

When reroofing a house, it is sometimes advantageous to select a roofing material that can be applied directly over the old roof.
"Overroofing," as this process is termed, is a method that is practical, economical and profitable.

The labor and expense of removing the old roof is eliminated.
The ease and simplicity of application is greatly increased. Littering of the lawn is avoided, and the home is completely protected from any possible damage by inclement weather during the operation.

A double roof is the result of this method, which offers increased protection from storm damage,
and acts as an insulation, enhanc-

Housing Question Box

Q.—Can a church obtain a Federal Housing Administration loan for alterations or repairs?

A.—Yes, at the discretion of the bank or other lending institution to which the official board of the church may apply. The FHA has ruled that the Contract of Insurance for Modernization Loans, which is signed by all approved lending institutions, clearly covers repairs, alterations and improvements on churches. And the term "improvement" includes anything which is built in, becoming a permanent part of the structure,
such as many types of heating plants and pipe organs.

Q.—How can I protect my house against a continuous invasion of white ants, the kind that eat wood?

A.—The wood-eating "white ants" are really termites, more closely related to the roach than to the true ant. They nest in moist ground or moist places in the cellar or in the house foundations and as they can't get to these moist places. Among protective measures to take against them are the following:

1. Make the cellar or basement moisture proof. 2. Replace all wooden foundation material with concrete, masonry or wood treated with coal-tar creosote or other anti-termite preparation. 3. Place metal shields around the top of the masonry or concrete foundation and around all pillars, supports and piping below the woodwork of frame buildings. 4. Be sure that there is no earth within 18 inches of the wooden framework or other untreated wooden parts of the house.

Q.—Do I go to the State FHA Office for a loan, or do I write to the Administrator in Washington?

A.—You do neither. The FHA does not make the loan. Go to your own bank, or to any lending institution, and apply for the loan you want. If for any reason it cannot accommodate you, the State FHA office or the local FHA committee can give you any information you need, including the names of several approved lending institutions. Every Modernization Loan is made by a private institution. The FHA simply insures it.

Q.—There are two things I want to know about lightning protection. Does a metal roof protect a building and is there any way to protect valuable trees from being struck?

A.—A metal roof protects a building from lightning only if the roof is properly grounded, that is, connected with the ground by a lightning rod or some other metal conductor of electricity. A metal roof which is not properly grounded actually increases the danger from lightning. Valuable trees can be protected by lightning rods, just like buildings. The taller and more deeply rooted a tree becomes, the more it becomes a target for lightning.

ing home comfort both in winter and summer.
Reconditioning money may be borrowed, if desired, from any local financial institution authorized by the Federal Housing Administration to make loans insured by the Government, so that no home owner need neglect this important item of improvement. This and similar improvements should be attended to immediately, before the ravages of winter make them impossible and doubly important.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

OUT OF TOURNAMENT

Circleville high school's basketball team will not participate in the central district basketball tournament this year regardless of how successful or vice versa the season may be—Class A schools of the Central Buckeye league have voted not to enter any district competition until the high school athletic association reclassifies the schools so a team representing a school so small as Circleville will not have to face Columbus Central or some other gigantic school.

AFFECTS QUINTET

The ruling affects Circleville, Bexley, Grandview, Delaware and Westerville leaving Marysville, the only class B school in the league, the right to enter the 'B' tournament.

It seems to us that "King-fish" Townsend and his committee could be fair enough to reclassify to give the smaller class A schools a 'break'.

MYERS TO REDS?

We thought for a while that Billy Myers, Columbus shortstop was getting a break by being sold to the New York Giants but it seems that he is about to go down the river to Cincinnati, and that's bad—The Enquirer today said that a deal in which the Reds will send Mark Koenig infielder and Allyn Stout pitcher to the Giants for Myers has been about completed—The Reds would then have an all-rookie infield of Mize at first base, Kampuris at second, Myers at short and Lew Riggs at third—A good minor league infield, no doubt, but one that will hit an average the size of a pin-head's handband.

2 NEW COACHES FOR PRO TEAMS?

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Reports were current here today that two clubs in the National Professional Football league, the Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates, will have new coaches next year. Captain John J. McEwan, former Army and Navy Cross mentor, is said to be definitely out as coach of the Dodgers while the same is reported true of Luby De Moella, of the Pirates. Dan Topping, Jr., Greenwich, Conn., sportsman who controls the Dodgers, is said to be seeking Chick Meehan of Manhattan, Andy Kerr of Colgate or Herb Kopf, assistant to Lou Little at Columbia, as McEwan's successor. Harold (Red) Grange is said to be the leading candidate for the Pittsburgh job.

GRAYSON READY FOR ROSE BOWL

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal. Dec. 12—Bobby Grayson, Stanford's all-America backfield star, will be ready to play against Alabama in the Pasadena Rose Bowl classic New Year's day. Dr. E. F. Roth, Stanford team physician, made this announcement following an extended examination of X-rays of injuries to Grayson's ribs. The Cardinal fullback, now spending his nights in the Palo Alto hospital, has been absent from practice sessions more than a week.

Ohio Colleges to Follow Hi School Football Plan

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12—Another indication that high schools carry part of the burden of sports pioneering for colleges was uncovered today with the indication that the Ohio conference may compile an accredited list of officials for athletic events next year. The plan, according to George Daniels, of Lorain, athletic commissioner of the conference, will be modeled after the one adopted and now in use by the Ohio High School Athletic association. Reports by coaches on the refereeing at high school events are turned back to H. R. Townsend, director of the high school group, after every game and the officials are rated on a basis of 1 to 5, with the lower number signifying a perfect job of officiating. Townsend disclosed that next

DUTRA STILL LEADS

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 12—Olin Dutra, national open champion, was determined to hang desperately to his 72-hole lead as the 72-hole $12,500 Miami-Biltmore open golf tournament moved into its last half today. Dutra played golf to card a 74, three over par, amid well high impossible weather conditions yesterday. A frigid wind swept over the course with such intensity that only four players were able to break the mediocre score of 76, cards for the entire field, which includes some of the highest ranking pros in the game ranging generally from the extreme high 70's to the low 80's. Tony Longo of Marmaroneck, N. Y., was the low scorer against the wind. He carded a 73.

Harvard May Hire

George (Potsy) Clark

Coach of the Detroit Lions professional football team, George (Potsy) Clark, former University of Illinois star, was mentioned as possible head coach at Harvard, succeeding Eddie Casey, resigned. A powerful group of Harvard alumni was reported favoring his appointment.

NEW FORWARD GETS CALL IN STATE LINEUP

Laybourne's Showing Against Ohio U. Wins Him Starting Position.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12—A revamped Ohio State University cage quintet, featuring a former second-string player in one of the starting forward positions, today went through only light workouts in preparation for the game with Marietta tonight. Bruce Laybourne, from Cuyahoga Falls, who as a substitute forward accounted for 11 of Ohio State's 31 points against the Bobcats of Ohio U. last Saturday, will be among the varsity starters, Coach Harold Olsen said. Inwood Smith and Capt. B. H. Reiter will play at guard, with Earl Thomas at center and Red Wilson at the other forward post. The clash with Marietta in the Ohio River town will be Ohio State's second of a 19-game schedule and their first game away from home. Coach Olsen plans to take three complete squads to Marietta, with all of the 15 players expected to see service in the game. The Bucks will return from Marietta for two more days of serious early-season practice before meeting Carleton, from Northfield, Minn., at the annual basketball clinic and demonstration in the coliseum here Saturday.

NOT TO PLAY

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 12—Coaches Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr today had but one more player to choose to round the eastern all-star football squad that will engage the western team in a charity game at San Francisco New Year's day. Douglass Nott, Detroit university halfback, was the latest to accept an invitation to join the eastern all-star squad that will gather here Dec. 19. Nott, a sensational passer and key man of the Titan backfield, captained the Detroit eleven this season.

NEED BILL OF SALE FOR LICENSE TAG

Applicants for 1935 passenger or commercial vehicle license plates must present their bills of sale to the deputy license registrars for stamping. Notary public signatures are not sufficient because notaries have no power to officially stamp a vehicle as registered. Mistaken ideas on the part of many Ohio motorists as to the sufficiency of notary public signatures has caused Registrar Frank West of the Motor Vehicles Bureau to urge all applicants for auto tags to at all times have their certificates of title with them. Under no circumstances can 1935 tags be procured if the bill of sale is not properly stamped by a deputy registrar. This, West explained, is in accordance with the state laws relative to vehicle registration. Deputy registrars will not accept for registration, any vehicle whose bill of sale is incomplete or improper in any way. All deputies however, West stated, have been instructed to point out improprieties in bills of sale and inform applicants how they can be rectified.

NOTICE OF ADJUDICATION

Notice is hereby given that Walter T. Baer has been duly appointed and qualified as Executor of the estate of Cynthia Baer late of Pickaway County, Ohio, deceased. Dated this 8th day of December, A. D. 1934. C. C. YOUNG, Judge of the Probate Court, Pickaway County, Ohio. (Dec. 12, 19, 26.)

age of 30 until next June, and the old timers say that the oath of office will be withheld until then. Inside word is that the procedure of challenging Holt already has been agreed on among the floor leaders.

When he steps up to take the oath a Republican will raise the issue of his age. Holt will be asked to step aside, and the matter sent to a committee.

Young Holt's claim that he has a Senate precedent in the case of Henry Clay, who was seated before he was 30, is discounted by the constitutionalists.

They cite a sitting member of the Senate, Missouri's erudite Bennett Clark, as their authority. "Adams the Eloquent," Clark relates that Clay first came to the Senate through an appointment. He looked older than his 29 years, and as his age was not generally known, the question was not raised.

Clark wrote that not until several months after Clay was seated, when he was asked for his biography for the official record was his age discovered.

Crime Cards

One method of crime prevention which Homer Cummings has emphatically vetoed is the European passport or identification card system.

In Europe, an escaping criminal can travel only a short distance before he runs up against a border where he must show his credentials. But in the United States a criminal can take an airplane in Los Angeles one night and be in New York the next afternoon without disclosing his identification.

Cummings, however, holds that American traditions of liberty are too important to be infringed upon and that crime must be eradicated through public crime consciousness on the part of the public. (Copyright, 1934, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Hunt Ruins for Bodies

state were frantically trying to get in touch with missing members who may have been among those trapped in the flames.

RIVER DRAGGED

Police crews were dragging Grand river for the bodies of those who leaped into the stream from the rear windows of the hotel, rather than face death in the agony of fire. Four bodies were taken from the river yesterday. It was believed that many more of the victims leaped into the water, and as far as police have been able to check, none of those who chose the river was rescued.

Ice about an inch and a half thick covered the stream, and those who jumped into the river broke through it. They were immediately trapped beneath the ice.

Hospitals today were filled with injured, some of whom were expected to die. The refugees, leaping from windows, ten, 20 and 40 feet above the ground, were picked up with broken legs, fractured skulls, and grave internal injuries. Two of them, James Gratrix, Chicago salesman, and Clarence Smith of Coldwater, Mich., died in hospitals last night.

The triple investigation centered upon the failure of firemen to use lifelines. There was no criticism of the speed with which the engine companies answered the alarm, but with every window of the hotel crowded with screaming refugees, there were not enough ladders available in the whole department to reach all of the windows in time.

The legislature, at the suggestion of Governor Comstock, has already made provision to pay funeral expenses of all legislators and state employees who died in the fire.

STARS OF RADIOLAND

Jane Froman

Radio is a great thing but more important to Jane Froman, one of the ether's most beautiful stars, are a home and a family. Because she has this opinion Jane says she is going to give up radio when she reaches the age of 30. P. S.—She isn't saying just how many years she has left in her allotted career.

were pressed into service to aid the weary firemen, and a Detroit fire department wrecking crew arrived from the metropolis to take part in the gruesome search.

A temporary morgue was set up across the street from the ruins. Early in the day crowds of relatives and friends of missing guests began to congregate at the morgue to view the bodies. It was believed, however, that identification of the victims trapped in the building would be possible only in a few cases. The majority, it was feared, would be burned beyond identification.

PASSAGE BLOCKED

An investigation was also promised into the story of Hubert Acres one of the rescued guests, who said steel fire doors shut and bolted, barred the flight of many persons.

"I heard them pounding on the other side of the door, screaming to get out," he said. "They must have been cut off from their fire escape."

SALLY'S SALLIES

What the average schoolboy wants is history that will repeat itself.

FRIDAY HEALTH DAY IN SCHOOLS

Christmas Health Seal day in the schools has been designated as Friday, December 14, by Dr. B. O. Skinner, director of the Ohio Department of Education. This day has been set aside annually by the state director in cooperation with The Ohio Public Health Association's state-wide sale of Christmas Health Seals through its 104 local affiliated tuberculosis associations and Christmas Seal committees.

In a letter to superintendents of county, city and exempted village school districts Dr. Skinner says: "Since the educational campaign against tuberculosis comes each year from Thanksgiving to Christmas as carried on in Ohio by the Ohio Public Health Association it seems appropriate for the school system of our great state to set aside a part of one school day in which to discuss health in its personal and community aspects."

"I, therefore," Dr. Skinner's letter continues, "have no hesitancy in urging you, as the educational leader in your community to make some provision to give special significance to health in your school rooms on Friday, December 14."

Dr. Skinner suggests that teachers in each school be asked to devote a few minutes on that day to the reading of the story of the life of Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, the originator of the sanatorium treatment for tuberculosis and the builder of the first tuberculosis sanatorium in the United States in 1885 from which has sprung the now more than 600 such institutions now in operation in this country.

CHECK FURNACE

Now that the time for furnace fires is approaching, many furnaces that were not properly cleaned after the last fire will probably be found to harbor a troublesome accumulation of soot, and in other ways be in a condition that needs remedying before a satisfactory fire can be built.

Before being used again, the furnace should be thoroughly cleaned; all door hinges, damper hinges and regulator parts oiled; flues sprayed with light lubricating oil, and boiler doors left open until the first fire is built. This is the procedure that should have been taken immediately following the last fire, the preceding spring.

When ashes are left in the furnace and soot is allowed to accumulate, the effect is much the same as if an empty shell and powder were left in a gun. Moisture accumulates in the soot, corrosion sets in and harm is certain to result if such neglect is repeated often.

If new parts are needed, or an entire new furnace or an oil burner is contemplated, a plumbing contractor should be consulted at once while ample loans on easy terms can be obtained from local financial agencies working in conjunction with the Federal Housing Administration.

Q.—Is there a method of treating cellar walls and floors to make them waterproof?

A.—The principal causes of damp cellars are penetration of moisture through the walls and floors because of improper sub-drainage or condensation of moisture on chilled wall surfaces. The drainage system should be examined and corrected at the outset. If waterproofing is to be applied, such coating is best applied to the outside, since water pressure would have a tendency to force the coating away from the inside. It would be best to consult a building contractor or waterproofing concern for recommendations concerning specific cases. Where ground water conditions are not especially bad and dampness only is to be guarded against, a cement mortar coating is easiest to apply, and is perhaps most commonly used. This may consist of a half-inch coating of Portland cement mortar

DAVEY TO DELAY NAMING MANAGER FOR STATE FAIR

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—Apparently Gov. Elect Martin L. Davey will be in no hurry about appointing a state fair director, who has the title of assistant director of agriculture. Friends of Davey said today he did not mention an appointment on his recent visit here.

Charles M. Beer, Ashland, is an active candidate for re-appointment. His conduct of the state fair under Gov. George White, he believes, entitles him to another term and a number of fair exhibitors understood to have written Davey, suggesting that Beer be retained.

Agriculture Director Earl Hanefeld, who also is chairman of the Democratic state central committee, conferred at length with Davey

when he was here last week, but said no appointments were discussed. Hanefeld, who has been Beer's immediate superior during the white administration, is a hold-over in Davey's cabinet.

Beer's chances of re-appointment were enhanced by a dearth of aspirants for his job. So far the capital has heard only two names

Members of Congress See
Close-ups of Seven Men
Who Head NRA Board

WASHINGTON — One of the chief objects of interest of returning members of Congress is the board of seven men comprising the high command of the NRA.

Capitol Hill is brimming over with questions concerning the Blue Eagle rulers, their views, background, what they have done.

When the Congressional spotlight is focused on the group it will reveal the following picture:

Sidney Hillman, the strong man of the board. In the more than two months of its existence, this staunch laborite (he is President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers) has clearly shown himself to be the leader of his colleagues as a strategist and negotiator. Quiet-mannered, persuasive, fast-thinking, Hillman dominates the board.

S. Clay Williams, chairman, a tobacco manufacturing big industrialist who is none too happy on the board. Inside word is he wants to retire.

Dr. L. C. Marshall, secretary, an economist and statistical expert. Marshall has won the high praise of his associates as a hard-driving administrator. He inclines toward the liberal side, but is suspect in organized labor circles.

Leon Henderson, young head of the NRA Planning Division, and one of General Johnson's former lieutenants. A liberal and pro-laborite, Henderson has worked in close harmony with Hillman. The two make an effective team.

Blackwell Smith, 27-year old chief of the Blue Eagle legal section, former assistant to Donald Richberg when he was NRA general counsel. Smith is an able lawyer, but because of his youth and inexperience has kept in the background until recently when he has begun to assert himself—usually on the Hillman-Henderson side.

Dr. Walton Hamilton, Yale professor of constitutional law, an able economist and liberal inclined, but handicapped by uncertain health. He has not been active.

Borah Stays Aloof

The national convention secretly planned by the Liberty League for late this month will be without benefit of Senator Bill Borah.

When League masterminds concocted their scheme, they hit on the brilliant idea of inviting Borah and Alfred E. Smith as the keynote speakers.

The brown derby champion signified his willingness to come. But the thundering Idahoan, despite strong pleas, including a message from Smith, has refused. He may delight in blasting the New Deal and playing the GOP, but he is enrolling under no third party banner bearing the name of Irene duPont.

SEARCH RUINS OF HOTEL FOR FIRE VICTIMS

Authorities Fear Lansing Death Toll May Climb To Hundred

3 PROBES START

Report Hilarity In Hotel Caused Fire

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 12 — A steam shovel began biting into the ghastly wreckage of the Hotel Kerns today, as firemen began their search for the bodies of between 50 and 100 victims believed to have perished in flames which razed the old structure yesterday. Sixteen were known dead today, but the exact number of persons whose charred bodies lie in the pyre remained uncertain.

Estimates varied from 50 to 100. It was agreed that the toll probably will run closer to 100 than to the lower figure.

The first unrecognizable body was taken from the ruins of the hotel shortly after 9 a. m. As the steam shovel lifted ton after ton of the debris, crowds looked on as the snorting monster crushed its way through the crumbling remains of a wall and began its work on the ruins.

Meanwhile three separate investigations to determine the cause of the disaster got under way. Coroner Ray Gorsline prepared to open an inquest into the deaths. Prosecutor Dan D. McCullough announced he was starting an inquiry into reports that wild parties in the hotel preceded the fire.

"It is entirely possible that a cigarette in the hands of some intoxicated person caused this holocaust," he said.

City authorities began an inspection of the fire department's rescue equipment, to determine why firemen failed to stretch life nets under the scores of trapped victims who leaped from windows to land in the streets below or in Grand river which flows behind the hotel. Reports that the fire department's equipment was obsolete were denied by Chief Hugo Delfs.

The fire, starting at 5 a. m. yesterday, swept through the old wood and brick hotel at a time when it was crowded, largely due to the presence in Lansing of the entire state legislature, called into special session Monday by Governor William A. Comstock.

Five of the thirteen dead identified up to this morning, were state legislators—one of them a veteran senator from Saginaw. Families of legislators all over the (Continued On Page Eight)

Officers Say Other Arrests Are Near

Arrest of six local persons including one man and five youths had partially cleared up a "shoplifting" ring which has been causing havoc in a number of uptown stores in recent weeks.

The man arrested is Alonzo Gilmore, 35, of York-st., and the youths are: Maynard Keaton, 16, N. Scioto-st.; Harold Rambo, 18, Clinton and Ohio-sts.; John Graham, 16, York-st.; Harold Smith, 18, N. Scioto-st.; and Eugene Steele, 19, W. Mill-st.

GOODS RECOVERED

More arrests were believed near today as Officer William McCrady, Sheriff Charles Radloff and Deputy Bryan Custer carried on an investigation. A large quantity of goods has been recovered and some that has been sold by the band has been traced and will be returned.

A number of stores have reported "shoplifting" prevalent especially with the approach of the Christmas season and the arrests will help clear up a number of the jobs.

Several of the youths have made confessions while Gilmore, the older of the entire outfit and believed by officers to be the "fence," has admitted being in possession of some of the goods.

Stores which have been robbed by the "gang" include Stiffers, Rothman's, Murphy's, Grant's, Stoffer's, and the Atlantic & Pacific. Some articles stolen from each have been recovered.

Officer McCrady arrested Smith and Steele to start "the ball rolling." At about midnight Sheriff Radloff and Deputy Custer had others under arrest but the final arrest was not made until 5 a. m. Wednesday.

DENY $500 JOB

Although closely questioned all have denied knowing anything of the robbery of $500 from the G. C. Murphy store 10 days ago.

All are held pending charges although McCrady has filed affidavits of petit larceny against Steele and Smith.

JAPAN DRAFTS PLAN TO RACE UNITED STATES

More Submarines, Osumi's Plan; Japan Now Have More Subs, More Men.

TOKIO, Dec. 12.—More submarines and more modern but economical warships will be Japan's answer to any naval building war that may develop from Japan's forthcoming denunciation of the Washington treaty.

Seeking to allay fears that Japan's already overburdened taxpayers would have to bear the cost of such a construction race, Admiral Mineo Osumi minister of marine, outlined that program to the privy council, which is considering the draft of Japan's abrogation of the Washington pact.

"Japan does not intend to compete in a naval building race unless provoked," Admiral Osumi told the council.

He said he was confident that such competition was not inevitable, but if it did come, "Japan's best answer would be to improve her submarine defenses."

Japan now has 63 submarines to 45 for the United States.

Admiral Osumi also told the privy council that only a small increase in the present naval expenditure of 200,000,000 yen a year would enable Japan sufficiently to improve her navy.

Stress in any new construction would be on economy, while it would be possible to modernize ships that would otherwise have to be retired under the Washington treaty.

Fear that America would start a construction race was unjustified, said the marine minister, because the United States is already building up to 80 per cent of its building capacity.

Moreover, he declared, Japan has a naval personnel exceeding by 10,000 America's 80,000 so that Japan would be in much better position to man new ships than would the United States.

ISLAND 'QUEEN' AND FOUR OTHERS DEAD

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Dec. 12. Five persons, including the famous Baroness Elsie Bosquet de Wagner, self-styled "empress" of Floreana island in the Galapagos, died in the mysterious boat wreck which wrecked the modern Garden of Eden, according to fragmentary reports received here today.

The report indicated that the Baroness and Robert Phillips, a German who was the last to enjoy her favor and affections, had perished in fleeing from Floreana island, also known as Charles island, but the details of their death were not known.

Two bodies found on the bleak shore of Marchena island have been tentatively identified as those of Alfred, Edolph Lorenz, and Tregye, a Nazarene, Norwegian.

The bodies of the two victims of the shipwreck were found on the shore of Marchena island, but the details of their death were not known.

MERCURY FALLS TO NINE DEGREES HERE

Coldest of Present Winter; Central States in Throes of Frigid Cold

The coldest weather of the year had struck Circleville today with an official mark of nine degrees recorded on Dr. H. R. Clarke's government thermometer.

The temperature started to fall from a high of 22 degrees Tuesday afternoon until early Wednesday it was gradually slipping toward the zero mark.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Six thousand men were at work in icy temperatures today clearing Chicago's streets of snow that fell in the blizzard that claimed four lives and tied up transportation.

FALLS TO 17 BELOW

Continued cold weather was the official forecast today as the mercury fell to 15 above zero. Severe cold prevailed in the central states, with readings as low as 17 below zero in Iowa.

The task of removing snow left by the worst blizzard here in 30 years will amount to $50,000, it was estimated. Although buses, street cars, elevated and suburban trains were running on schedule again the snow still made driving difficult for motorists.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—New York was still held fast in the grip of extreme cold weather today.

Six persons were reported to have died as a direct or indirect result of the frigid wave and fears were expressed that this number would be expanded.

The thermometer registered 12 degrees above zero shortly after midnight and as the night wore on it remained at approximately the same figure.

Weather bureau experts were hopeful that there might be some abatement of the cold late in the day.

Swope and chief of the NRA compliance division at Washington. Miss Woods succeeds Benedict Crowell, who was advanced Monday from the compliance post to chief of the new four-state NRA set-up.

Two Brotherhoods Hear Mr. Harris' Travel Talk

F. R. Harris, superintendent of Greenfield schools, made a splendid talk to members of Methodist and Presbyterian churches Tuesday evening at the former club's meeting. His subject was "The Lost Cities of the Mayas."

Mr. Harris at the outset of his address explained his "wanderlust" and that every spring as soon as school is out he heeds the call of the open road. His travels last summer took him to Yucatan and the lost cities of the Mayas where he experienced some of the thrills of a lifetime visiting the ruins.

His descriptions of the lost cities, the Mayas from whence they came and where they went and the interesting manner with which he delivered his talk proved pleasing to the men's club members.

Mr. Harris was accompanied here by Dr. Hull.

SOLONS MEET TO VOTE UPON MONEY SOURCE

White Still Favors Income Tax But Senators Are Opposed

SESSION IS TODAY

Question of Tax Duplicates Is In Air

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—With indications that a sufficient membership of both houses would be on hand to take action, State Senator Paul Yoder (D) of Dayton, the Democratic floor leader, announced today that a bill to increase rates on productive intangibles one per cent would be placed upon immediate passage this afternoon.

The productive intangible bill, which Governor White said he would sanction although still preferring an income tax measure, would exempt the first $500 from the increase.

HOUSE IN FAVOR

Speaker Frank Cave of the house of representatives, said that should the senate pass the productive intangibles bill, it probably would receive the immediate concurrence of the house.

A check-up this morning indicated that there were about 50 senators on hand for today's legislative session and about 50 members of the house. Belief was expressed by legislative leaders that there would be a sufficient membership on hand to work out the program which Governor White has insisted must be passed to accompany the sales tax measure enacted last week.

Efforts were being made by Rep. J. Freer Bittinger (D) of Ashland, to gain the submission of his own plan of intangible tax increase, which is designed on a bracket system. It was believed, however, there was little likelihood it would be accepted as the plan was understood to be disapproved by Governor White.

2 STEAMERS IN DISTRESS

Identities Not Learned; One Sends Rockets In Pacific Early Today.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Interception of a radio message by the Radio Marine corporation here from the S. S. American indicated that another sea tragedy was taking place in the Pacific off the coast of Guatemala early today.

The American reported that it had sighted an unknown vessel sending rockets aloft.

The ship apparently carried no radio for the American did not report being in communication with it.

The position given by the American is about 300 miles off the west coast of Guatemala and is directly on the steamship lanes to leading North American ports from South America and the Canal Zone.

Radio men here expressed the belief that the distressed vessel might be a freighter or a tramp steamer.

MORE POWER URGE FOR GOVERNMENT IN CRIME DRIVE

CRIME SCHOOL THOUGHT NEAR

Vote of 10 Jurors Instead of 21 Urged by Pecora in Criminal Cases.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Greater authority to the federal government in the drive against crime loomed today as the result of the national crime conference in session here.

Under the direction of the department of justice, a national institute of criminology appeared to be in the making as the delegates continued their efforts to decide on a constructive program to combat crime. Racketeering and crime claims an annual toll of 13 billions of dollars in this country.

The conference was told of the need for more effective co-ordination of the activities of police and prosecuting officers of the various states. While George Z. Medallie, former U. S. district attorney in New York, pointed to the system of county government as inefficient in law enforcement Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati, urged the retention of this form of local government.

OPERATE IN STATES
Medallie recommended a central investigative organization for all the states and to be as effective as the department of justice.

Ferdinand Pecora, a member of the Federal Securities and Exchange commission and former counsel for the Senate banking committee, urged the elimination of the laws giving the defendant the privilege to decline to testify in a criminal case, and the requirement of a unanimous verdict of a jury. In criminal cases he favors a vote of 10 jurors to convict, instead of all 12.

Dr. William A. White, an eminent alienist and superintendent of St. Elizabeth's hospital here, recommended that persons who have been found to have serious anti-social tendencies be placed in the hands of the state.

Resolutions commending the department of justice for its anti-crime campaign and requesting that the conference go on record as favoring a study of juvenile delinquency have been made from the floor. The delegates were also asked to consider a resolution suggesting the department of justice establish a permanent body to study the causes of crime and to make sociological surveys.

James Johnson, warden of Alcatraz penitentiary, the United States "Devil's Island" in San Francisco bay discussed the functions of a modern prison at today's session. He has such prisoners as Al Capone, and George "Machine Gun" Kelly under his charge.

BOMBS WRECK SHOW HOUSES IN N. ENGLAND

Two Theatres in Boston, One in Lynn, One in Pawtucket Are Damaged.

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—Terrific explosions, thought to have been caused by dynamite bombs, today wrecked the lobbies of the Tremont and Majestic theatres in Boston, the lobby of a theatre in Lynn, and the lobby of a theatre in Pawtucket, R. I.

The two famous playhouses in Boston and the two in the other New England cities, were used for the showing of motion pictures, and had been involved in labor troubles, according to police.

The Boston theatres damaged in the bomb blasts were the Tremont and Majestic. In the past both have staged musical comedies and in the case of the Majestic, legitimate plays. Since the depression, however, the Tremont has been used for the showing of motion pictures. The Majestic, although closed most of the time, has also shown moving pictures, usually being the scene of Boston premieres for new pictures.

The blast which wrecked the lobby of the Tremont theatre, in the heart of Boston, downtown district, could be heard for more than a mile. Windows were smashed in nearby business establishments and glass hurled across Tremont street onto historic Boston common.

Police and firemen, unable to determine at first the cause of the explosions, made a thorough search of the building. The absence of the smell of gas and the fact that the fire's heating apparatus had no fire, pointed to the bomb explosion. Firemen hoisted ladders and examined the roof of the theatre building, but could find nothing. No serious damage was done to the interior. There were no injuries reported in any of the explosions.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, do a little of this. It's a little water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely, and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablets, approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Before any substitution insist on the original McCay's Little Liver Pills on the red label. BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB ENJOYS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Always an affair of much interest and gaiety for members of the business and Professional Women's club is the club's annual birthday party, which this year was held in the club rooms Tuesday evening preceded by a 6:30 o'clock dinner.

Thirty-three members and guests enjoyed the affair which celebrated the club's eleventh anniversary.

Christmas wreaths and greenery decorated the dining room where the guests were seated for the dinner at attractively appointed tables lighted with red tapers. Miniature Christmas trees at each place for favors and clever place cards were used.

An entertaining program followed the delightful dinner hour. Mrs. Marietta Hennessy for the opening number played two piano selections, "Arabesque" and "Doll Dance."

Hilma Haecker who is always favorite with her musical instruments played "Silent Night" and the zither and a novelty number on the harmonica.

Several numbers were then sung by a chorus comprised of all presidents of the club after which Miss Clara Southward, vice president, in behalf of the club presented Miss Charlotte McSwiney, president, with a gift. Miss McSwiney also observed her birthday anniversary Tuesday.

Three popular piano numbers were then played by Mrs. Hennessy and Mr. Haecker entertained with vocal solos, "The Man on the Flying Trapeze," "Over the Waves" and "Jingle Bells."

Concluding the program Mrs. Mary G. Morris and Miss Blanche Valentine sang one of the club songs accompanied by Mrs. William Fitzpatrick.

A guessing contest was enjoyed which the prize was won by Mrs. Mary Wilder and the remainder of the evening was spent in bridge, high scores at the close of the party going to Miss Esther Drum and Miss Nelle Anderson.

She was accompanied by Miss Jane Goldsmith who has been a visitor in the Dumm home for the past week and also by her sister Miss Leona Dumm who expect to make an extended visit with the latter's brother William Dumm and family of Akron.

BRIDAL GOWN HAS NEW SILHOUETTE

Lelong has designed a gown for the December bride with a new silhouette, as sketched in Paris. It features a slim, fitted line, unbroken at the waistline, with the skirt reaching the instep in front and spreading out in a short graceful train at the back. Posed in the center back of the skirt is a separate panel, several yards long, which trails behind the skirt itself. The voluminous trailing veil of tulle, attached to a small headband of pearls, completes the wedding frock. The gown is mat crepe.

Interior Decorators Now Offered Wallpaper In Variety of Designs

Wallpaper has for many years been a popular wall finish because of its infinite variety of colors, designs and effects. In keeping with the modern trend, manufacturers have developed wallpapers which are more attractive and of better quality than the old papers, and thoroughly conforming to the present-day requirements in decoration.

Not long ago, a papered room could never be rearranged without patches of unfaded wall being brought into view. With this problem in mind, wallpaper manufacturers developed after long experimentation a new scientifically-colored paper, which cannot be harmed by the strongest light.

In addition to being colorfast, many papers today are damp-proof. Waterproof and even washable papers are available for kitchens, baths, nurseries, and other rooms where such papers might be desired. More different designs and effects are offered than ever before. Many reproductions of fine old eighteenth and nineteenth century designs, as well as a variety of distinctive patterns by contemporary artists, are available.

Old scenic papers are available, not only in the original grays and browns popular a hundred years ago, but also in gay natural colors.

Some designs are wide and free in treatment, with large areas of open background. The effect is of a mural painting.

Designs which employ flower motifs are always in good taste, especially when the flowers are scattered rather loosely about on a plain ground and surrounded with a great deal of open space.

The new modernistic designs are adaptable to modern rooms, and often are effective in traditional rooms. There are modern papers in black and white which give the effect of pen and ink sketches applied on the wall. These are very attractive in small writing or powder rooms, especially with black work lined with silver.

An infinite selection of "whoopie" patterns to gladden the hearts of merry-makers is available for the recreation room in the basement or other part of the house. For children's playrooms, there are mother goose characters and story-book scenes. There is a wallpaper, in fact, to solve every background problem.

In order to insure correctness throughout the house, a competent decorator should be consulted. There is always plenty of room, however, for the exercising of individual tastes, which should never be sacrificed if the house is to possess "personality."

Comfort, Convenience and Value Increased by Rewiring Operation

Rewiring enhances the comfort, convenience, safety and value of real property. Federal Housing Administration loans can be used advantageously to modernize the wiring of the home or business property.

The living room of the home or apartment may be equipped with a center ceiling light and four convenience outlets for floor, table and desk lamps and radio, all controlled by switches at the entrance. Two or more side wall lights should be at the mantel or other suitable location. A convenience outlet in the middle of the floor, and one or more convenience outlets at the mantel or elsewhere are desirable.

The dining room needs a center ceiling light and two or more side wall lights, all with three-way switches at both entrances. A convenience outlet in the middle of the floor, and one or more side wall convenience outlets should be installed also.

Each bedroom needs a center ceiling light with a three-way switch at the entrance and bedside. Three side wall convenience outlets for dressing table and bedside lights, and a light for each closet controlled automatically by the doors are also suggested.

For the sake of convenience, a bathroom should be equipped with a center ceiling light with switch at the entrance. Two side wall lights above the lavatory with a three-way switch at the lavatory and entrance. A waterproof center ceiling shower light with wall switch at tub. A side wall convenience outlet.

The kitchen could be profitably wired to accommodate one ceiling light with a three-way switch. It should have a convenience outlet for an exhaust fan. A heavy duty range outlet (if an electric stove is used). A clock hanger convenience outlet. A convenience outlet for a dishwasher, and four additional convenience outlets.

Use could be readily found in the modern basement for a ceiling or wall light for stair illumination, with a three-way switch. A laundry center ceiling light with switch at the laundry entrance, two laundry side lights, and two outlets for the washing machine and ironing board. A recreation room center ceiling light with switch at entrance or wall, and a convenience outlet for a floor lamp, radio or other item. A workshop center ceiling light and side wall light controlled from the entrance or wall, and two convenience outlets for machinery. Separate circuit for the furnace (if electrical equipment is used), and a ceiling light at the furnace.

NEW ROOF ON OLD ONE CUTS COST OF JOB

When reroofing a house, it is sometimes advantageous to select a roofing material that can be applied directly over the old roof. "Overroofing," as this process is termed, is a method that is practical, economical and profitable. The labor and expense of removing the old roof is eliminated. The ease and simplicity of application is greatly increased. Littering of the lawn is avoided, and the home is completely protected from any possible damage by inclement weather during the operation.

A double roof is the result of this method, which offers increased protection from storm damage, and acts as an insulation, enhancing

Housing Question Box

Q.—Can a church obtain a Federal Housing Administration loan for alterations or repairs?

A.—Yes, at the discretion of the bank or other lending institution to which the official board of the church may apply. The FHA has ruled that the Contract of Insurance for Modernization Loans, which is signed by all approved lending institutions, clearly covers repairs, alterations and improvements on churches. And the term "improvement" includes anything which is built in, becoming a permanent part of the structure, such as many types of heating plants and pipe organs.

Q.—How can I protect my house against a continuous invasion of white ants, the kind that eat wood?

A.—The wood-eating "white ants" are really termites, more closely related to the roach than to the true ant. They nest in moist ground or moist places in the cellar or in the house foundations and die if they can't get to these moist places. Among protective measures to take against them are the following:

1. Make the cellar or basement moisture proof. 2. Replace all wooden foundation material with concrete, masonry or wood treated with coal-tar creosote or other anti-termite preparation. 3. Place metal shields around the top of the masonry or concrete foundation and around all pillars, supports and piping below the wood-work of frame buildings. 4. Be sure that there is no earth within 18 inches of the wooden framework or other untreated wooden parts of the house.

Q.—Do I go to the State FHA Office for a loan, or do I write to the Administrator in Washington?

A.—You do neither. The FHA does not make the loan. Go to your own bank, or to any lending institution, and apply for the loan you want. If for any reason it cannot accommodate you, the State FHA office or the local FHA committee can give you any information you need, including the names of several approved lending institutions. Every Modernization Loan is made by a private institution. The FHA simply insures it.

Q.—There are two things I want to know about lightning protection. Does a metal roof protect a building and is there any way to protect valuable trees from being struck?

A.—A metal roof protects a building from lightning only if the roof is properly grounded, that is, connected with the ground by a lightning rod or some other metal conductor of electricity. A metal roof, which is not properly grounded actually increases the danger from lightning. Valuable trees can be protected by lightning rods, just like buildings. The taller and more deeply rooted a tree becomes, the more it becomes a target for lightning.

ing home comfort both in winter and summer. Reconditioning money may be borrowed, if desired, from any local financial institution authorized by the Federal Housing Administration to make loans insured by the Government, so that no home owner need neglect this important item of improvement. This and similar improvements should be attended to immediately, before the ravages of winter make them impossible and doubly important.

tree becomes, the more it becomes a target for lightning.

Q.—Most of the rooms of my house need papering. From the long-term investment point of view, shall I have the new wall paper pasted over the old, or shall I have the old paper scraped off first?

A.—It is much less expensive to have the new paper pasted right over the old, but also much less satisfactory. The only way to assure a really satisfactory job is to have the old paper scraped off and the walls prepared before the new paper is put on. Otherwise, the new paper is apt to crack or peel at any time.

Q.—The problem of keeping out next winter's winds must be solved by me in the next two months. Is metal the only effective weather stripping?

A.—Felt and other materials can be used for weather stripping, and are used, but metal is the most effective. And there are several kinds of metal weather stripping. In selecting the type and material, consider the saving in fuel bills through several winters as well as the cost of the weather stripping material and the installation. The more effective the job, the lower your fuel bills.

Q.—I want to build a new garage on my premises, but am told that Modernization Loans are only for repairing or altering buildings already constructed. Is that true?

A.—No. You may apply for a Modernization Loan to build a new garage, provided you do not ask (Continued On Page Eight)

OUT OF TOURNAMENT

Circleville high school's basketball team will not participate in the central district basketball tournament this year regardless of how successful or vice versa. The season may be—Class A schools of the Central Buckeye league have voted not to enter any district competition until the high school athletic association reclassifies the schools so a team representing a school so small as Circleville will not have to face Columbus Central or some other gigantic school.

AFFECTS QUINTEZ

The ruling affects Circleville, Exley, Grandview, Delaware and Westerville leaving Marysville, the only class B school in the league, the right to enter the 'B' tournament.

It seems to us that "Kingfish" Townsend and his committee could be fair enough to reclassify to give the smaller class A schools a "break".

MYERS TO REDS?

We thought for a while that Billy Myers, Columbus shortstop, was getting a break by being sold to the New York Giants but it seems that he is about to go down the river to Cincinnati, and that's all. The Enquirer today said that a deal in which the Reds will send Mark Koenig infielder, and Allyn Stout pitcher to the Giants for Myers has been about completed. The Reds would then have an all-round infield of Mize at first base, Kampurs at second, Myers at short and Lew Riggs at third. A good minor league infield, no doubt, but one that will hit an average the size of a pin-head's hatband.

Ohio Colleges to Follow Hi School Football Plan

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—Another year the routine, although still figured on the 1 to 5 plan, may be changed to A, B and C groups when they are publicly announced, according to the indication that the Ohio conference may compile an accredited list of officials for athletic events next year.

The plan, according to George Daniels, of Lorain, athletic commissioner of the conference, will be modeled after the one adopted and now in use by the Ohio High School Athletic association.

Reports by coaches on the refereeing at high school events are turned back to H. R. Townsend, director of the high school group, after a try game and the officials are rated on a basis of 1 to 5, with the lower number signifying a perfect job of refereeing.

Townsend disclosed that next year the referee will be a 75, three over part, and well, high responsible weather conditions yesterday.

A trial will be made over the course with a view to that of the referee, to be a 75, three over part, and well, high responsible weather conditions yesterday.

DUTRA STILL LEADS

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 12.—Olin Dutra, national open champion, was determined to triumph yesterday in his two stroke and as the 72-hole stroke play tournament open play tournament, and a cut out last hole today.

Dutra played a 75 to card a 75, three over par, and well, high responsible weather conditions yesterday.

A trial will be made over the course with a view to that of the referee, to be a 75, three over part, and well, high responsible weather conditions yesterday.

GRAYSON READY FOR ROSE BOWL

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Dec. 12.—Bobby Grayson, Stanford's all-American quarterback, will be ready to play against Alabama in the Rose Bowl classic New Year's day.

Dr. F. E. Roth, Stanford team physician made this announcement following an extended examination of X-rays of injuries to the player's ribs.

The Cardinal fullback, now spending his final week at the Alto hospital, has been out of practice sessions for a week.

NEW FORWARD GETS CALL IN STATE LINEUP

Laybourne's Showing Against Ohio U. Wins Him Starting Position.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—A revamped Ohio State University cage football team, featuring a former forward player in one of the starting positions, today went through only light workouts in preparation for the game with Marietta tonight.

Bruce Laybourne, from Cuyahoga Falls, who as a substitute forward accounted for 11 of Ohio State's 31 points against the Bobcats of Ohio U. last Saturday, will be among the varsity starters.

Inwood Smith and Capt. Bill Baitner will play at guard, with Carl Thomas at center and Red Wilson at the other forward post.

The clash with Marietta in the Ohio River town will be Ohio State's second of a 10-game schedul and their first game away from home. Coach Olsen plans to take three complete squads to Marietta, with all of the 15 players expected to see service in the game.

The Bucks will return from Marietta for two more days of serious early-season practice before meeting Carleton, from Northfield, Minn., at the annual basketball clinic and demonstration in the coliseum here Saturday.

NOT TO PLAY

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 12.—Coaches Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr today had but one more play to choose to round the eastern, all-star football squad that will engage the western team in a charity game at San Francisco New Year's day.

Douglass Nott, Detroit university halfback, was the latest to accept an invitation to join the eastern all-star squad that will engage here Dec. 19. Nott, a sensational passer and key man of the Titan backfield, captained the Detroit eleven this season.

NEED BILL OF SALE FOR LICENSE TAG

Applicants for 1935 passenger or commercial vehicle license plates must present their bills of sale to the deputy license registrars for stamping. Notary public signatures are not sufficient because notaries have no power to officially stamp a vehicle as registered.

Mistaken ideas on the part of many Ohio motorists as to the sufficiency of notary public signatures has caused Registrar Frank West of the Motor Vehicles Bureau to urge all applicants for auto tags to at all times have their certificates of title with them. Under no circumstances can 1935 tags be secured if the bill of sale is not properly stamped by a deputy registrar. This West explained, in accordance with the state laws relative to vehicle registration.

Deputy registrars will not accept for registration, any vehicle whose bill of sale is incomplete or improper in any way. All applicants, however, West stated, have been instructed to point out any deficiencies in bills of sale and inform applicants how they can be rectified.

state were frantically trying to get in touch with missing members who may have been among those trapped in the flames.

RIVER DRAGGED

Police crews were dragging Grand river for the bodies of those who leaped into the stream from the rear windows of the hotel, rather than face death in the agony of fire. Four bodies were taken from the river yesterday. It was believed that many more of the victims leaped into the water, and as far as police have been able to check, none of those who chose the river was rescued.

Ice about an inch and a half thick covered the stream, and those who jumped into the river broke through it. They were immediately trapped beneath the ice.

Hospitals today were filled with injured, some of whom were expected to die. The refugees, leaping from windows, ten, 20 and 40 feet above the ground, were picked up with broken legs, fractured skulls, and grave internal injuries. Two of them, James Gratrix, Chicago salesman, and Clarence Smith of Coldwater, Mich., died in hospitals last night.

The triple investigation centered upon the failure of firemen to use lifelines. There was no criticism of the speed with which the engine company answered the alarm, but with every window of the hotel crowded with screaming refugees, there were not enough ladders available in the whole department to reach all of the windows in time.

The legislature, at the suggestion of Governor Comstock, has already made provision to pay funeral expenses of all legislators and state employees who died in the fire.

FRIDAY HEALTH DAY IN SCHOOLS

Christmas Health Seal day in the schools has been designated as Friday, December 14, by Dr. B. O. Skinner, director of the Ohio Department of Education. This day has been set aside annually by the state director in cooperation with the Ohio Public Health Association's state-wide sale of Christmas Health Seals through its 104 local affiliated tuberculosis associations and Christmas Seal committees.

In a letter to superintendents of county, city and exempted village school districts Dr. Skinner says: "Since the educational campaign against tuberculosis comes each year from Thanksgiving to Christmas as carried on in Ohio by the Ohio Public Health Association it seems appropriate for the school system of our great state to set aside a part of one school day in which to discuss health in its personal and community aspects."

"I, therefore", Dr. Skinner's letter continues, "have no hesitancy in urging you, as the educational leader in your community to make some provision to give special significance to health in your school rooms on Friday, December 14."

Dr. Skinner suggests that teachers in each school be asked to devote a few minutes on that day to the reading of the story of the life of Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, the originator of the sanatorium treatment for tuberculosis and the builder of the first tuberculosis sanatorium in the United States in 1885 from which has sprung the now more than 600 such institutions now in operation in this country.

Now that the time for furnace fires is approaching, many furnaces that were not properly cleaned after the last fire will probably be found to harbor a troublesome accumulation of soot, and in other ways be in a condition that needs remedying before a satisfactory fire can be built.

Before being used again, the furnace should be thoroughly cleaned; all door hinges, damper hinges and regulator parts oiled; flues sprayed with light lubricating oil, and boiler doors left open until the first fire is built. This is the procedure that should have been taken immediately following the last fire, the preceding spring.

When ashes are left in the furnace and soot is allowed to accumulate, the effect is much the same as if an empty shell and powder were left in a gun. More than accumulates in the soot, corrosion sets in and harm is certain to result if such neglect is repeated often.

If new parts are needed, or an entire new furnace or an oil burner is contemplated, a plumbing contractor should be consulted at once while ample loans on easy terms can be obtained from local financial agencies working in conjunction with the Federal Housing Administration.

Q.—Is there a method of treating cellar walls and floors to make them waterproof?

A.—The principal causes of damp cellars are penetration of moisture through the walls and floors because of improper sub-drainage or condensation of moisture on chilled wall surfaces. The drainage system should be examined and corrected at the outset. If waterproofing is to be applied it should be done before back-filling. Such coating is best applied to the outside, since water pressure would have a tendency to force the coating away from the inside. It would be best to consult a building contractor or waterproofing concern for recommendations concerning specific cases. Where ground water conditions are not especially bad and dampness only is to be guarded against, a cement mortar coating is easiest to apply, and is perhaps most commonly used. This may consist of a half-inch coating of Portland cement mortar

Converting Attic Into Room

A little wallboard, some appropriate furnishings, and some ingenuity converted the wasted attic space shown in the upper picture into the cozy room revealed in the lower illustration.

(mixed in the proportion of one sack of cement to two cubic feet of clean, well-graded sand, plus finely-divided materials such as hydrated lime or diatomaceous silica or a plastic cement) applied to the exterior surface of the wall with a trowel.

DAVEY TO DELAY NAMING MANAGER FOR STATE FAIR

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12—Apparently Gov. Fleet Martin L. Davey will be in no hurry about appointing a state fair director, who has the title of assistant director of agriculture. Friends of Davey said today he did not mention an appointment on his recent visit here.

Charles M. Beer, Ashland, is an active candidate for re-appointment. His conduct of the state fair under Gov. George White, he believes, entitles him to another term and a number of fair exhibitors understood to have written Davey, suggesting that Beer be retained.

Agriculture Director Earl Hanefeld, who also is chairman of the Democratic state central committee, conferred at length with Davey

when he was here last week, but said no appointments were discussed. Hanefeld, who has been Beer's immediate superior during the White administration, is a hold-over in Davey's cabinet.

Beer's chances of re-appointment were enhanced by a dearth of aspirants for his job. So far the capital has heard only two names mentioned as possible aspirants for Beer's position. W. W. Ellenwood, Coalton, chief of the plant industry division, and R. Kirk Mee, Oxford, present sergeant-at-arms of the Ohio senate.

Mee also is a candidate for re-appointment as senate sergeant-at-arms and Ellenwood is understood to have been chiefly interested in the agriculture directorship, while Beer has sought no other position than the one he holds.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—At last Harvard university has found a zither player to make use of the special arrangement of "Ten Thousand Men of Harvard" for zither players, recently found in archives of the university. George R. Plunkett, a junior, is the hero who saved the day when it was feared that the zither player the band could get would be an outsider. Plunkett, is a juggler who rides a monocycle.
